

The MICHELLE ATKINSON Story

THE GAP:

Michelle described herself as being "drained, burnt out and stressed." She "felt stuck and confused." She couldn't understand why she "felt unfulfilled and unhappy." She said: "This negatively affected my happiness, my health, my relationships, and my daily life." Her personal goals and dreams were placed on the back burner, as she pursued things that she was good at, but not passionate about.

The Bridge:

Michelle began the process of implementing the 5 step Zero Barriers Purpose Driven Exercise. She visited regularly with a Zero Barriers coach and they worked on the purpose driven steps together. "The purpose driven model is the first platform that I've found that contains all of the abundance and purpose principles in one place with a comprehensive guide to execution."

COMPANY FEEDBACK

"By learning and executing the purpose driven principles, I removed the interference and static from my life. Being purpose oriented has given me direction, freedom, fulfillment, confidence, peace, success, happiness and love in multiple arenas of my life. It set me free and lit me on fire! Really, I felt like my head had been under the water for a very long time. Suddenly, I was aware of so much more. I was experiencing so much more, and it is still continuing today. It has taught me that there is truly no limit to our potential when we have the right tools."

- L. Michelle Atkinson, VP of Operations & Finance
